SUBJECT: Proposed text amendments to Gig Harbor Municipal Code (GHMC) sections
17.96.025.E and 17.96.030.A.1.a

DATE: January 25, 2024

At the upcoming Gig Harbor Planning Commission meeting on February 1, 2024, staff will introduce two proposed changes to the GHMC pertaining to permit processing.

BACKGROUND

In October 2023 the Community Development and Public Works Departments engaged in a process improvement workshop to determine where we might be able to increase our efficiency and help small businesses with their permitting needs. The workshop focused primarily on proposals that seek a change of use or a tenant improvement to an existing business.

One of the potential improvements identified during the workshop was a text change to Chapter 17.96, which would reduce staff time in the processing of minor change of use applications as well as reducing the associated costs to permit applicants.

Chapter 17.96 provides the procedures for processing site plan applications, which apply to all development projects that have the potential to impact public utilities, traffic, facilities and services. Site plan reviews also address site design, access, landscaping, screening and layout of buildings and parking lots.

The code differentiates major site plan review from major site plan review based on the degree of impact posed by a proposal. For instance, a major site plan review includes such projects as new construction of a building on a vacant parcel or establishing new use or change of use not located in an existing building. In contrast, a minor site plan review would be required for projects such as modifying a parking lot layout on an existing site.

Section 17.96.025 provides exemptions for certain types of projects that do not create impacts to infrastructure such as transportation network, sewer and water systems.

One of the listed exemptions, subsection 17.96.025.E, provides the following:

“Change in use of an existing structure, provided the change in use does not increase the number of required parking spaces and does not require a change of use capacity evaluation as provided for in GHMC 19.10.004.” (emphasis added).

A second provision of the Site Plan chapter, 17.96.030.A.1.a. includes the following category of minor site plan review:

“Change in use of an existing structure which increases the number of required off-street parking spaces and/or requires a change of use capacity evaluation as provided for in GHMC 19.10.004” (Emphasis added).

These two provisions cited above reference GHMC 19.10.004, which requires a capacity analysis for all changes of use. The capacity analysis looks to how changes of use may increase demand on our transportation, water, or sewer infrastructure. All proposed changes of use are required to undergo the analysis, which may or may not indicate potential increases in demand.

The existing language contained in GHMC 17.96.025.E and 17.96.030.A.1.a. require businesses seeking change of use that requires a capacity evaluation to apply for a site plan review. The problem that was discussed in the October workshop is the reference to GHMC 19.10.004 requires a business seeking a change of use to apply for a site plan review in cases where the capacity analysis may show no impact.

Stated a different way, businesses seeking a change of use that does not trigger increased trips, water or sewer use is still required to apply for a site plan review and the associated time and cost of permit processing.

Staff proposes removing the wording from the two code provisions, 17.96.025.E and 17.96.030.A.1.a. that references capacity evaluation provided for in GHMC 19.10.004.
